

VISA EXEMPT COUNTRIES

CANADA

Holders of passports issued by the following countries and territories are able to visit Canada without obtaining a visa for a period of up to six months. They are required to obtain an ETA if they arrive by air (except for U.S. nationals and citizens of France residing in Saint Pierre and Miquelon arriving directly from the territory).

Visitors are eligible if they are in good health, can convince an immigration officer that they have ties (job, home, financial assets or family) that will take them back to their home country and have enough money for their stay.
